Charisma	Charisma was used by Weber to describe one of three principal types of political authority. To Weber charisma was a personal quality of attraction and psychological power, capable of inspiring deep political loyalty in large numbers of people.
Cognitive Thinking	Thinking through mind.
Communication Gap	Communication Gap is when the meaning intended by the speaker or sender is not what is understood by the recipient.
Completeness	Effective communication transmits a complete message so that the receiver can understand the full meaning of the message.
Component	Part that it is made of.
Conciseness	Another important quality of effective communication is that the message should be concise.
Concreteness	Business communication becomes effective-when it excludes irrelevant facts.
Conflict	State of mind in which it is impossible to make a decision.
Consciously	State or quality of awareness.
Contingency	A chance, accident or possibility conditional on something uncertain.
Conversant	It means to be familiar by use or study.
Cooperation	Cooperation can usually be preserved when a new member is introduced.
Co-operative Society	An autonomous association of persons united voluntarily to meet their common economic, social and cultural needs.
Coordination	It is concerned with the objective of harmonizing the activities of the different departments of an enterprise in order to achieve the common goal.
Correctness	The effective communication contains only the correct messages.
