3. Lack of techniques of coordination: Without mutual respect among the subordinates, the coordination may not survive. Moreover, the managers must respect the feelings and emotions of the employees.
4. Ideas and objectives: Every manager in an organisation must know the objectives very clearly. If he cannot understand the objectives, then the coordination will not be successful and effective.

5.9 Steps for effective coordination

Establishment of "Employee's Grievances Cell"

↓

There should be a proper system for reporting

↓

Skilled workers are to be rewarded adequately

↓

The management should induce the employees to take active part in meeting, seminars, conferences, workshop and committees

↓

The management should also encourage the employees to have friendly relationship with others

↓

Managers should have opportunities to get training to get training in the area of leadership, coordination, planning and staffing

FIG 5.3 Steps in Coordination

DIRECTION

5.10 Meaning

The functions of management like planning, organising, staffing deals with the preparation of work performance. But direction stimulates the organisation and its staff to execute the plan. So direction is also called management-in-action.

5.11 Definition

According to Koontz and O'Donnell, "Direction is the impersonal aspect of managing by which subordinates are led to understand and contribute effectively and efficiently to the attainment of enterprise objectives".

According to Haimann " Directing consist of the process and technique utilised in issuing instructions and making certain that operations are carried on thus originally planned".

5.12 Characteristics of Direction

1. It is concerned with issuing the orders and instructions to the subordinates.
2. Supervisor will give direction to subordinate.
3. Directing is pervasive, because it is performed at all levels of management. Therefore, direction is a universal acceptable concept.
4. It is a continuous and on-going process because it deals with the continuous guidance to be provided by the superiors to their subordinates.
5. It always follows a top down approach.
6. It provides linkage between other managerial functions such as planning, organising and staffing.

XII OSS_English version CHAPTER 05.indd 63 1/7/2020 5:53:33 PM