5.13 Importance

The essential elements of directing are as follows:

1. Issuing orders and instructions:

   Every instruction given by the manager in the process of directing his subordinates should be reasonable, complete and clear. It must be in writing, so that the possibility of misunderstanding can be avoided.

2. Guiding, counselling and teaching the subordinates:

   The manager should guide, counsel and teach the subordinates with regard to the proper way of doing the job in order to enable them to carry out their job-effectively and efficiently.

3. Supervising the work of subordinates:

   Every work of subordinates should be supervised by the manager to ensure that their performance conforms to the plan.

4. Motivating the subordinates:

   Motivating the subordinates to meet the expectations of the superiors is another element of directing.

5. Maintaining Discipline:

   Another element of directing is maintaining discipline and rewarding efficient performance.

6. Consultative Direction:

   Before the issue of any order, the people responsible for executing order will be consulted with regard to its feasibility, workability and the best way of accomplishing the results.

7. Integrative Force:

   Direction integrates the activities of employees. It is mainly concentrated about what, when, where and who to do the work. Without integration, no activities can be fulfilled.

8. Initiating the action:

   In direction, a manager motivates the subordinates to perform the activities. When an employee receives the direction, his or her initiative will start to do the work.

5.14 Techniques of Direction

Managers use several techniques to direct their subordinates. They are as follows:

1. Delegation: Assigning the work to the correct person and giving him authority to perform the task. It is the process of assigning duties and power.
2. Supervision: Overseeing the assigned task performed without deviating from the original plan. It is performed with the view to ensure that the subordinates work effectively and efficiently to attain the organisational goal.
3. Communication: Communication helps the employer to communicate his views, opinion, orders to employees . It helps to attain the goal.
4. Motivation: Providing rewards to best performing employees and punishment for poor performing employees.
5. Leadership: Encouraging the team to proceed with the right direction.
