

Sir Mortimer Wheeler headed the ASI from 1944 to 1948. He was involved in excavations of many important historical sites, where he employed methods that would make a lasting impact on the field. Sadly, his legacy is today tainted by evidence of harassment and racism while on assignment in India.

ARTISTS WHO TOUCHED NEW HEIGHTS

This section focuses on three remarkable people who, through their achievements and contributions, shone a spotlight on India’s artistic traditions and influenced subsequent generations of artists and performers.