

Anand attended the World Congress of Intellectuals in Defense of Peace, Wroclaw in 1948, where he met celebrated Spanish painter Pablo Picasso, Sri Lankan architect Minette DaSilva and American sculptor Jo Davidson, among others.

Anand, along with RK Narayan (also featured in this book) and Raja Rao, is considered one of the ‘founding fathers’ of the Indian novel in English. Narayan and Anand were notable for becoming widely popular both abroad and in India.