Aizaz Rasul was president of the Indian Women’s Hockey Federation for over fifteen years and worked hard to help girls in India participate in sports without fear of discrimination.

The Begum’s life and legacy

Rasul was elected to the Constituent Assembly, where she was a vocal participant in the debates. Notably, she helped convince other Muslim members to agree to joint electorates after Independence, and argued in favour of children receiving an education in their mother tongues. She was also a member of the All India Women’s Conference (like many of the women in this book) and believed women should have equal rights, which she advocated throughout her time in politics. Rasul continued to serve in government after 1947 as a member of the Rajya Sabha and later as a member of the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Assembly.
