

Kaur represented India multiple times at the World Health Organization (WHO) and was the first woman and first Asian president of the World Health Assembly, the decision-making body of the WHO.

One of Kaur’s most successful campaigns was waged against malaria, a disease that killed approximately a million Indians each year. Kaur successfully gained funds and material assistance from