12. R&AW report on Nepal, Tauqeer, Shahzad. Escape after Batla house encounter, meeting with Riyaz Bhatkal, stay in Nepal and trip to Riyadh.

11. A Spy among the Dervish

1. The Organisation of Islamic Conference, MEA No. 2052/161/DD(PP)/81.

2. No. 1371/MIN/73, Record of discussions between Foreign Minister Swaran Singh and US's Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger.

3. CIA 180007, Khomeini and implications for Iranian policy.

ACKNOWLED GEMENTS

While pouring four years of my life into this book, I've had opportunity to meet daring spies, agentrunners and spymasters who offered me a panoramic view of espionage missions. They don't seek credit and would like to remain in oblivion. I can't mention their names but I would like to express my deep gratitude for the trust they bestowed in me. I hope the book built on glimpses of clandestine operations and mysticism of this secret world is gripping to curious readers.

I have also benefitted from the generous help and suggestions of many former R&AW and Foreign Service officers who shared intricate facts on some of the complex events. I owe profound thanks to my closest friends, Dalip Singh, Ajmer Singh and Gyanant Singh. This book has had many inspirations. But two people stand out for encouraging me to go beyond 800 words: Ravi Shankar, a senior journalist and Karthika V.K., the