on the board of operating companies. In practice, he did not do any of that and kept all directorships only to himself and apart from him there was nobody else in any of the operating companies.’