at a much higher rate. During the nine years from 1927–28 to 1936–37, TISCO had paid workers four times the rate that they were required to be paid under the Act. In 1937, schemes for profit sharing were also introduced for workers.