11. Avoiding Connotations and Ambiguities

- Semantic problems can be solved by using simple language and avoiding connotations.
- Care must be taken to see that the receiver of the message does not have to go beyond the text of the message.
- A sender should, therefore use denotative words and expressions in preference to connotative ones.
- It is also necessary to avoid all ambiguity that means using words with double meaning.

12. Socio-psychological aspect

As communication is a two-way process involving both the sender and the receiver, both should make conscious efforts to understand each other's cultural and socio-psychological background.

- As a golden rule for effective communication one must remember, "First understand, then be understood."
- An effective communication is an informed communicator.

13. Completeness

- One must also endeavour to send a complete message, furnishing all necessary facts and figures.
- Incomplete communication annoys the receiver, as a result they do not get proper feedback.
- The message should be so organised that the receiver is not left in doubt about any aspect of the message.

14. Conciseness

- Completeness does not mean inclusion of unnecessary details or diversions.
- An effective communication is concise and crisp.
- The sender should be clear headed and properly focused in her/his vision.

15. Proper use of body language

- Proper use of body language is of paramount important, especially in oral communication.
- No oral communication can be successful or effective if we do not take care of our body language.
- In the first place there must be good eye contact with the person to whom we are communicating.
- The movement or our hands and feet must be graceful.
- Every listener observes carefully how we walk and how we talk.
- Our gait says a lot about us.
- A warm handshake can do wonders.
- Holding our head straight on our shoulders shows confidence.

When we use speech to communicate ideas and opinions as well as our emotions and innermost feelings, We communicate each of these by using a variety of elements, which includes:

- The tone of voice
- The emphasis used in speech
- The content of the speech
- The use of figurative language
- The use of humour in speech
- The pace of delivery
- The pronunciation used
- The pitch of our voice
- The use of inferred speech
