Methods of oxygen administration:

The manner in which oxygen is administered depends upon the condition of the patient.

Oxygen can be delivered

1. Nasal cannula

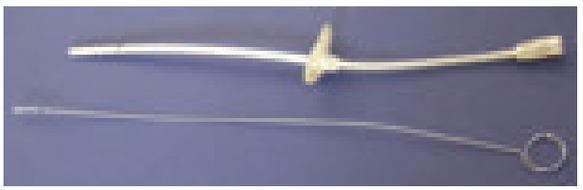

2. Oxygen by nasal catheter
3. Oxygen by mask

4. Oxygen tent

5. Trans tracheal oxygen.

Hazards of oxygen inhalation:

- Infection
- Combustion (Fire)
- Dryness of the mucus membranes of the respiratory tract
- Oxygen toxicity
- Atlectasis
- Retro lental fibro plasia
- Asphyxia

Administration of oxygen by nasal catheter method:

Oxygen cylinder

- Stand and accessories. (the regulator, flow meter, humidifier, connecting tube etc)

Articles required:

- Nasal catheter of appropriate size, clean, sterile or disposable type
- Water soluble lubricating jelly
- Bowl of water
- Mackintosh and towel
- Flow light and tongue depressor
- Cotton applicators and normal saline in a container
- Gauze pieces in a container

XII_Nursing_Vocational_Practical.indd 300 1/11/2020 4:29:32 PM